Featured Career: Nurse

WHAT DO NURSES DO? Nurses work within the health care system to provide care to individuals of all ages, families, groups and communities. Nursing includes the promotion of health, prevention of illness, and the care of ill and disabled people. There are two types of nurses Registered Nurse (RN) and Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN); the main differences between RN and LPN are their legislation and the procedures they are permitted to perform on patients.

IS IT RIGHT FOR ME? Nursing is a good career for someone who likes being around people and has good social and communication skills. Nurses should have good emotional stability and be empathetic. Nurses have varied work schedules so you should expect to have a flexible work and personal life.

HIGH SCHOOL PREREQUISITES? High school diploma, including grade 12 English, Mathematics, Biology, and Chemistry.

POST SECONDARY EDUCATION? LPN: Diploma in practical nursing typically 2 year program.

RN: Bachelor's degree in Nursing typically 4 year program.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT MY SALARY TO BE? The average starting salary for a Nurse in Canada is $43 000.

Musqueam Safe Drinking Water Monitor Program

Charlene Campbell-Wood

10 Life-Changing Reasons to Drink More Water

Becca Borawski Jenkins, University of Southern California, Managing Editor

Has it occurred to you today that you are thirsty? That thirst is your body calling for re-hydration. Nearly all of our systems do not function as well without the proper water intake. So, really, what does this mean? Why should we drink more water?

- | | |
|--|-------------------------|
| 1. Drinking water is essential to life | 2. Prevent cancer |
| 2. Be less cranky | 4. Perform better |
| 3. Lose weight | 6. Have less joint pain |
| 4. Flush out waste and bacteria | 8. Prevent headaches |
| 5. Make your skin glow | 10. Feeds your body |

Quick rules of thumb for drinking water:

Drink half your bodyweight in ounces of water

Carry a bottle everywhere with you as a reminder to keep drinking.

Eat raw fruits and vegetables – they are dense in water.

Drink water and other fluids until you urinate frequently and with light color.

Risk Identification and Safety Planning for Indigenous Communities
Musqueam 51st Hall ~ June 29-30, 2016, 9:00 to 4:00
Hosted by the Musqueam First Nation

The goal of this training is to help participants gain a solid understanding of collaborative risk identification for offender accountability, and victim centered safety planning.

This 2-day training with the Ending Violence Association of BC (EVA BC) explores strategies to work with the victim and the offender to identify the complexity of risks affecting safety, and to coordinate safety planning which includes liaising with justice system personnel and others, as appropriate. The training covers cultural and systemic factors that aggravate and mitigate risk in domestic violence cases, including a focus on what increases safety for Indigenous people. It explores the language of risk and safety, and the benefit of shifting risk analysis practice from solely “victim centered” to “offender accountable” as best practice for addressing domestic violence. Participants will learn about a framework of coercive control when addressing risk, as well as commonly used risk indicator tools, their benefits and the challenges of their application. The training includes exercises to give participants the opportunity to hone their skills and become comfortable with these tools and resources, as well as case studies to give participants the opportunity to practice applying these resources.

Topics Include:

- Relevant legislation regarding privacy and information sharing
- Models in use for integrated case planning and management
- Importance of institutionalized risk identification
- Conducting a thorough non-threatening intake process
- Key elements of effective collaborative case planning
- Safety planning with diverse scenarios
- Relevant Provincial Protocols and Policies
- Key elements of good collaboration
- Tools that promote effective collaboration

Lunch and refreshments will be provided on both days.

Open Call – Artist-Initiated Opportunity INVITATION TO ARTISTS TO PROPOSE PUBLIC ARTWORKS

Submission deadline: Wednesday, July 5, 3 p.m.

The City of Vancouver invites artists to expand their art practice into the public realm and propose new artworks, envisioned for sites in Vancouver, that contemplate the city, its defining features, spaces and neighbourhoods.

This open call to artists requests approaches to artworks of any scale for public spaces in Vancouver. Emerging or established artists may propose works in a range of media including, but not limited to, built form, two-dimensional works, socially engaged practices, short-term and permanent sculptural installations. All commissions are for new work; existing works will not be considered.

Background

For twenty-five years, the City of Vancouver Public Art Program has been commissioning artists to create artworks unique to Vancouver. Artists' ideas, skills, and visions of the city are key to the success of the program. In 2009, prior to the 2010 Olympics, the first "artist-initiated" opportunity was launched as an open call to artists to propose artworks for the city outside of development or other civic initiatives. This call resulted in Monument for East Vancouver by Ken Lum and Kingsway Luminaires by David MacWilliam, as well as a number of innovative temporary projects, including Vanessa Kwan's Olympic hosting project Vancouver Vancouver Vancouver. The second open call, timed to celebrate the City's 125th anniversary in 2011, resulted in Kingsway Trail by Sonny Assu, Weppeler and Mahovsky's A False Creek, Cameron Kerr's marble sculpture on Queen Elizabeth Plaza, and temporary works such as Digital Natives, produced by Other Sights for Artists' Projects, and Bitter and Weber's A Sign for the City.

Eligibility

This call is open to artists/artist teams with a regular art practice who can demonstrate substantial familiarity with Vancouver and its neighbourhoods. You do not have to be a resident in Vancouver but you must have some experience in this place and be available to manage the project locally. Experience with public art is not required.

For the purposes of this call, the definition of an artist is a professional practitioner who

- has completed basic training in visual art – an undergraduate degree or equivalent apprenticeship with an accomplished practitioner in the field,
- maintains a practice as an artist and has exhibited an independent body of work for at least two years,
- is recognized by peers in the field.

Information Session for Artists:

Staff will review the call, the application requirements and procedures and be available to discuss the opportunity and answer questions.

Date: Wednesday, June 7, 2017

Time: 7:00 p.m.

Place: náć'a?mat ct Strathcona Branch Library, 730 East Hastings Street

Q&A will also be posted online at Vancouver.ca/publicart.

Anticipated Schedule (subject to change)

Release Call for Artists: week of May 29

Artist information session: Wednesday, June 7, 7 p.m.

Submission deadline: Wednesday, July 5, 3 p.m.

Shortlist selected: week of July 31

Orientation of shortlisted artists: week of August 7

Concept proposals due: Week of October 2

Finalists selected: Week of October 9

Artworks commissioned: Week of October 16

Mentoring

Shortlisted artists new to public art will have access to consulting artists, art consultants, and staff experienced in public art who can act as advisors and mentors to assist in developing the concepts. Consulting artists will meet with shortlisted artists and will be available for guidance and technical expertise in the course of concept and design development.

Goals for Artist-Initiated Projects:

- Provide an opportunity for artists to propose public artworks not tied to development
- Contribute to a stimulating public realm and enrich the experience of the city for residents and visitors
- Support high caliber public artworks in the context of international art practices

- Mentor artists in producing public art

Sites

Artists should propose sites of interest for their work. Sites cannot be guaranteed and proposals should identify the nature and requirements of the site(s) in which the public artwork is envisioned. Ideas are encouraged for long-term, permanent and temporary projects for the public realm.

This is an opportunity to think about the city as a whole, its geographies, gateways, routes and public spaces, including unique crannies. Artists are encouraged to consider neighbourhoods outside the downtown core. Potential locations for site-specific works on city-owned properties could include plazas, greenways, community centres, libraries, and civic infrastructure. Privately owned sites may be considered if they are publicly accessible and an agreement with the owner can be reached. Projects proposed for parks must be approved by Park Board.

No proposals will be considered for Stanley Park, Locarno Beach, or Jericho Beach at this time. Sites of significance to the local First Nations, including shoreline areas, will only be pursued with Musqueam, Squamish, and Tsleil-Waututh support.

Short-listed artists must be willing to work to confirm a site during the Concept Development and Detailed Design stages. Please note that projects must not be associated with third party advertising. All locations must be in the City of Vancouver.

If the proposal is selected, artists will need to consider how their proposed project will accommodate site use, pedestrian flow, safety, heritage designations, and official uses. Public or site stakeholder consultation may be required.

Environmental sensitivity is encouraged in the materials and processes of the artwork. Maintenance feasibility will be a consideration in awarding a commission.

Budget Estimates

Submitting artists or artist teams are asked to estimate a preliminary budget range necessary to realize their proposed ideas: up to $25,000; $25,000 to $50,000; $50,000 to $100,000; and $100,000+. It is understood that this is a very rough estimate, but bear in mind that public art budgets must cover all costs, including artist and design fees, supplies, insurance, engineering, fabrication, delivery, installation and taxes. Please refer to the info sheet Considerations for Artists Submitting to Public Art Competitions found online for more details on the range of costs that may be incurred. This is strictly for information; it is not necessary to submit a budget sheet at this stage. Short-listed artists will be asked to submit more detailed project budgets in Stage Two in order to establish feasibility of the project.

The number of projects realized will depend on the scale and quality of the submissions and the total program budget available. The City reserves the right not to fund any of the proposals.

Selection

Proposals will be evaluated by a panel of artists, curators, and others knowledgeable about art and the city in a two-stage process. The Selection Panel will shortlist artists who will be paid an honorarium to develop Concept Proposals. Concept Proposals will be reviewed by staff to determine feasibility and then presented to the Selection Panel. The panel will select the final projects to be commissioned.

Artist selection will be based on:

- High quality, innovation, and creativity of past work
- Approach to the opportunity and relevance to Vancouver
- Demonstrated ability to produce and present work
- Clarity of vision in relation to art in public space
- Understanding of materials and techniques
- Availability and ability to meet deadlines
- Ability to work collaboratively with others

Shortlisted artists will be provided with an honorarium of $500 to $5000, depending on the nature and complexity of the proposed work. Opportunities to present aspects of the work to the public during the concept development phase are encouraged.

Commissioned artists will need to enter into a contract with the City. The contract will identify insurance requirements, copyright, detailed design requirements, and a schedule of payments.

How to Apply

All proposals must be submitted via the online application form. It is wise to apply well in advance of the deadline. Only one submission will be accepted per artist, though works may be proposed for more than one site.

Completed proposals are not requested or required at the application stage. Reference contacts are requested but letters are not required.

The following will be required:

Submission Requirements:

1. A statement (up to 250 words) about your approach to this opportunity, your interest in public space, how you see the work situated, relevant experience and skills, and how this opportunity relates to your practice.

2. Up to eight JPG or PDF images, one per page. A maximum of two videos (up to 15 seconds each) may be included in place of four images. Images and videos should be titled with a number and the artist's name.

Optimum image resolution is 72 DPI, maximum 768 PX high. Images should be no more than 2MB.

Video segments should be in QuickTime or preferably Windows Media Player, compressed to a maximum of 2MB.

3. An image list that corresponds to numbered JPGs or videos submitted. Include artist's name, title of the work, date, media, dimensions, location (if public), commissioning body. If necessary, as in the case of interactive work, you may include up to a fifteen-word description.
4. A CV of up to two pages.
5. A brief (<30 words) summary of the approach to this opportunity.

The City of Vancouver, in partnership with our three Host Nations, the Musqueam, Squamish and Tsleil-Waututh First Nations, is hosting Canada 150+. This year-long focus on Indigenous arts and culture includes large-scale Signature Events this summer including the Drum is Calling Festival.

The Drum is Calling is a nine-day festival of Indigenous and diverse arts and culture. Highlighting the festival will be stellar performances from iconic artists such as singer-songwriters Buffy Sainte-Marie and Chantal Kreviazuk and Pow Wow Step creator DJ Shub, to emerging stars like Inuktitut alt-country group the Jerry Cans, Juno-winning storytelling singer-songwriter William Prince and rising R&B performer George Leach. Additional highlights will include hands-on workshops and live programming inside the Indigenous housing forms built by the Kanata Festival. The inaugural Indigenous Fashion week will feature established and emerging artists of Indigenous fashion design and modeling.

The City of Vancouver is looking for volunteers to fill various roles during the nine-day festival.

Requirements:

- Must commit to a minimum of two volunteer shifts (12 hours total)
- Must attend the volunteer orientation session on Tuesday, June 27 from 6 – 8 pm at the Vancouver Playhouse Theatre (600 Hamilton Street)
- You enjoy working with the public
- You are at least 16 years of age
